

Investment objective

Capital and income growth from a diversified portfolio of investments in the Asia Pacific region designed to outperform the MSCI AC Asia Pacific Free Index (£).

Monthly commentary

Equity market performance remained polarised in June, with developed markets continuing to outperform emerging markets. Emerging markets are considered to be most at risk in a protectionist environment and increased fears of a trade war led to a -4.0% decline in the MSCI Asia (ex Japan) Index. A strong US Dollar, such as we have seen this year, also tends to be negative for Asian emerging markets. Developed markets in the region enjoyed mixed fortunes, with Australia up 2.1% and Japan down 1.7% but both outperformed most other markets in the region which suffered declines of between -4% and -7%. Taiwan and India bucked the general malaise with declines of just -0.6% and -0.2% respectively.

Witan Pacific's NAV total return of -2.9% represents an underperformance of the -2.5% total return achieved by the benchmark over the month. The share price total return outperformed both the NAV and the benchmark with a total return of -0.6%, as the discount to NAV narrowed during the month. Over the first five months of the current financial year, the NAV total return of -1.9% is marginally behind that of the -1.6% achieved by the benchmark. The share price total return is -3.7% over the same period. The NAV and share price total return over the last 12 months of 5.5% underperformed the +8.5% achieved by the benchmark.

Asian equity markets have borne the brunt of the changeable sentiment seen so far in 2018. For most developed markets, the various events have largely cancelled each other out. In Asia, however, negative short-term sentiment has outweighed the positive longer-term factors so far this year. This period of consolidation follows two years of exceptional gains and should prove healthy, provided that the adverse influences (especially concerning protectionism and oil prices) do not tip the world into growth disappointment or recession. IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Please remember, past performance is not a guide to future performance and the value of shares and the income from them can rise and fall, so investors may not get back the amount originally invested. This marketing communication is provided for informational purposes only and should not be construed as constituting an offer or a solicitation to buy or sell interests or investments in Witan Pacific Investment Trust plc. Emerging markets tend to be more volatile than more established stock markets and therefore your money is at greater risk. Other risk factors such as political and economic conditions should also be considered. Funds which specialise in investing in a particular region or market sector are more risky than those which hold a very broad spread of investments. Funds investing in overseas securities are exposed to and can hold currencies other than Sterling. As a result, exchange rate movements may cause the value of investments to decrease or increase. Some, or all, of the annual management fee may be charged to the capital of the Fund. Whilst this increases the yield, it will restrict the potential for capital growth. Net Asset Value ("NAV") performance is not the same as share price performance and investors may not realise returns that equal NAV performance. Where a fund holds a limited number of investments and one or more of those investments declines or is otherwise adversely affected, it may have a more pronounced effect on the Fund's value than if a larger number of investments were held.
